

college credit

Many study abroad programs are available through universities and community colleges. They provide an excellent opportunity for students to get a head start on college credits. Teachers can also utilize courses to maintain credentials or move up on the pay scale. Some programs require on-campus learning at international universities, while others allow independent study. You may search for a program that interests you and design your tour around the course content.

Areas of study may include:

Language Immersion, Regional History and Culture, Creative Writing, Literature, Art History, Museum Studies, Studio Art

You may contact your local university or community college to find out if they offer compatible study abroad programs, or you may contact our partner, Seton Hill University.

TSA Tours is proud to offer our Tour Directors the opportunity to design their own study abroad curriculum. High school juniors and seniors can earn college credits at a fraction of standard tuition costs, adding incredible value to your tour.

Seton Hill University's College in High School Program lets high school teachers administer college-level coursework centered around your TSA Tours itinerary.

Maximize your students' travel experience by offering

1

Create your syllabus & appoint a liaison for main contact between your high school and the University.

2

Submit syllabus & teachers' resumès to: Marlane Busch, busch@setonhill.edu for approval.

Once approved, the fees are only $220 per student per course offered.

* Teachers and students must make arrangements for earning academic credit independently, as TSA Tours is not directly affiliated with any institution. Only available for high school juniors and seniors.
