DURANGO HISTORY NOTES

- Named after Guadalupe Victoria (1786-1843), one of the key fighters for Mexican independence and the first president of Mexico
- Founded in July 8, 1563, located at an altitude of 6,200 feet above sea level
- The capital's historic center is one of Mexico's finest and attracts visitors with its parks, plazas and charming colonial buildings. You may see the former Seminario de Durango where Guadalupe Victoria studied philosophy and rhetoric.
- Take a cable car up to the top of the Cerro de los Remedios to enjoy panoramic views of the whole city.
- Home to Francisco "Pancho" Villa (1878-1923), a key fighter and hero in Mexico's history
- Perhaps visit Villa's Hacienda de Canutillo that was given to Villa in 1920 by President Adolfo de la Huerta.
- Movie veterans might recognize some of Durango's countryside that served as the set for many Hollywood films, mainly western.
